Lochinvar, LLC continues to expand upon its offering of commercial solar thermal systems by introducing their new Thermal-Stor™ Stratified Solar Thermal Storage Tank. Designed to offer an ideal solution for solar thermal and ground source applications with an emphasis on hydronic space heating, the multi-functional Thermal-Stor operates as a storage tank and hydronic buffer tank while solely occupying the space of a single unit. Thermal-Stor uses the natural buoyancy of heated water to efficiently layer the temperatures in the tank, maximizing heat transfer capability of the renewable energy source and hydronic space heating system. Energy from a solar thermal system or ground source heat pump is transferred to the storage vessel through a spherical heat exchanger. As renewable energy is added, the stored water follows the laws of physics and stratifies within the tank—as heat is added, the hot water rises to the top, and the cooler water settles at the bottom.
