

APPA's Space Management Resources

In this issue we focus on campus space management and utilization, and we barely scratch the surface. Space guru Ira Fink returns to these pages to update his landmark work on classroom space and classroom laboratory space, which he introduced to APPA members 15 years ago in Facilities Manager. Other Fink articles published by APPA included "Space Management is Not Space Counting" and the two-part "Throwing Space Standards Out the Window: Using Benchmarking to Predict Space Needs."

Following is a smattering of resources on space management and related topics through a variety of programs—publications, professional development programs, the Body of Knowledge, and the annual Facilities Performance Indicators report, among others.
