

ASSA ABLOY Americas University provides the opportunity to become door-security solutions experts. Knowing that door-security solutions are a comprehensive effort extending beyond the product itself, ASSA ABLOY Americas University (AAAU) has spent nearly a decade educating its students in best practices for protecting the people and places most critical to its customers. AAAU offers both instructor-led and online courses that introduce or extend knowledge about the components of a door opening, and the opening as a whole. Open to all, AAAU provides installers, locksmiths, facility managers, architects, and distributors with an avenue to improve their own knowledge and thus improve their facilities' security. WESTINGHOUSE SECURITY announces the addition of the Starlight color camera series to their product lineup. Available in a turret or bullet model, these cameras capture high-resolution color video surveillance day or night. The 1080p cameras provide superior detail and clarity. Both the Starlight bullet and turret cameras are available as either a 4-in-1 that uses existing coaxial cables and works with HDTV, HDCVI, AHD, and CVBS technologies, or as an IP version. With a 3.6-mm F/1.2 starlight lens, these cameras capture images up to nearly 1,000 ft. from a fixed position. In addition, the strong waterproof housing is rated IP66, providing a high level of protection against particles and water. Starlight cameras offer an affordable, dependable solution that helps keep people and property safer and more secure.
